VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA -- (Marketwired - July 24, 2013) - Ecometals Limited (the "Company") (TSX VENTURE:EC) (BERLIN:GDQ) (FRANKFURT:GDQ) has, following on from its announcement regarding the sale of its wholly owned Bermudan subsidiary Ironman Ltd ("Ironman") on March 26, 2013, been notified by Ironman of its progress on its iron exploration rights in Amapa, Brazil (the "Amapa Iron Project"). As announced on March 26, 2013 the following deferred consideration shall be due to the Company by Ironman: i) a further US$200,000 in cash paid before December 31, 2013 provided Ironman decide to continue with the Amapa Iron Project beyond July 31, 2013 and; (ii) once the Amapa Iron Project commences production, an amount in cash every 3 (three) months calculated on the basis of US$2 (Two United States Dollars) per metric ton of contained iron (the "Additional Payment") subject to the Additional Payment being limited to a maximum amount of US$1,000,000 (One Million United States Dollars). These payments shall be accelerated in the event of change of control of Ironman and/or the Amapa Iron Project.

The first hurdle faced by Ironman in achieving a mining license for its iron ore tenements has been successfully cleared. This was the submission to DNPM in Brasilia of the results of Ironman's programme of exploration of the tenements by the deadline of July 12, 2013. The Company understands from Ironman that in addition to the ground, aero mag work and geochemistry formerly undertaken by the Company to delineate the anomaly, Ironman drilled six holes, achieving results described by Ironman as "most encouraging".

The Company further understands that upon approval of the final report by DNPM, Ironman intends to do further drilling to delineate a resource to 43-101 standards. The Company further understands that Ironman is hopeful of achieving the necessary permits to enable it to begin production before year end.

William Lamarque, CEO of the Company commented: "It is early days but the principals of Ironman, with the assistance of our Macapa office, have done a great job to submit this exploration report within the tight timetable allowed and we understand from them that their results at this stage are encouraging. We are optimistic therefore that our deferred consideration will be paid within a relatively short period."
