

Aftermath Silver Commences Exploration at San Andres - Grants Stock Options

30.04.2014 | The Newswire

Vancouver, April 30, 2014 - Aftermath Silver Ltd. (the "Company" or "Aftermath Silver") has commenced exploration at the San Andres silver project in Durango, Mexico (see news release #3 dated April 10th 2014). The program is being run by Coast Mountain Geological Ltd who have previous involvement on the project and were the team behind the original work that opened up the old mine workings. They will be accompanied during this program by Doug Ramshaw, CEO of Aftermath, as well as the Company's two Mexican mine site employees.

The program will be completed in May with results expected in June and July.

In addition, the Company has cancelled a total of 1,085,000 options that were outstanding to past management and consultants no longer with the Company and granted 3,465,000 new stock options to Directors, Consultants and employees of the Company exercisable at a price of $0.15 for a period of 5 years.

About San Andres

The San Andres project is located in Durango State, Mexico and lies approximately 8 km to the east of Chesapeake Gold's Metates deposit (resources of 526 Moz Ag, 18.5 Moz Au and 4.2 B lbs of zinc) and 6.5 km south of the privately-owned and operated 1,200 tpd San Miguel del Cantil Au-Ag mine.

San Andres is fully permitted with an existing 300 tpd mill and camp facility on site. With the exception of investment in the mill and the granting of the permits to commence mining (2006-), the project has been largely untouched by modern exploration since historic mining operations ceased in 1915 at the time of the Mexican Revolution. According to historic Mexican Government records (which have not been independently verified and thus should not be relied on) 17 Moz of silver were produced from 1890-1915. The mine is not currently in operation remaining on care and maintenance.

The 2014 field program is being performed under the supervision of Adrian Fleming MAusIMM(CP), RPGeo, Director of Aftermath Silver and a Qualified Person as defined by NI 43-101. Mr. Fleming prepared and reviewed the technical information in this news release on behalf of Aftermath Silver.
