"We are thrilled to host the two-day Quebec Critical Metals and Technology Investor conference, highlighting the breadth of the province's rich commodities and burgeoning technology" said Jason Paltrowitz, Executive Vice President of Corporate Development at OTC Markets Group. We graciously welcome the participation of Quebec's Delegate General, Martine Hebert and Associate Deputy Minister of Mines, Nathalie Camden to this signature event."

"On behalf of the Quebec Government, I am delighted to take part in "Investing in Quebec's Critical and Strategic Minerals and High-Tech Sectors Conference." This conference will showcase for U.S. and investors elsewhere some of our best competitive advantages: all the minerals and raw materials required for battery manufacturing and a vast territory containing new mining opportunities with a reliable, sustainable and ethical partner," said Nathalie Camden, Associate Deputy Minister of Mines. "Our action plan on critical and strategic minerals has already yielded impressive results, not only because we have the resources, will and the tools needed, but because we ensure that all agencies and government entities work together toward one mission: helping companies and governments to secure their mineral supply chain. We are thankful to the New York Delegate General Martine Hebert and her team for the opportunity and their partners OTC Markets, Murdock Capital Partners and TAA America for making this remarkable event."
